

Straight Egyptian Dam Lines

As pointed out in the sire line feature preceding this one, the Bedouin tribes of Arabia that created the Arabian horse used a matriarchal system of identifying a horse by its "strain" or female family. A horse's identity was handed down by the name of its mother's family. This was uniquely Bedouin. It was not uniformly followed with all Egyptian ancestors, however it is true of most. One exception would be the famous stallion Saklawi II, bred by Ali Pasha Sherif. Saklawi II was sired by the stallion Saklawi I of the Saqlawi Jidran strain, but his dam is the legendary El Dahma, a Dahmah Shahwaniyah mare by strain.

In this instance Saklawi II is named in honor of his sire but not his dam. Another factor one faces in examining ancestors of Egyptian horses is that sometimes the specific name of the strain of an ancestor was well known during its time but not officially recorded later. This would apply to a number of root mares who have a general strain name but not a substrain, such as the Inshass mare Hind, a Saklawieh. For others the strain is not certain such as the mare Karima whose dam is listed as "Obeya" but strain is not recorded so some have attributed this line to what sounds like phonetically: Abayyah. Then there is also the unique situation for the mare Bint Yamama*, a much celebrated mare in Egyptian breeding. The Egyptian records give her strain as Kuhaylan Jellabi and they have never been changed from that notation officially. However, study of Lady Anne Blunt's diaries indicate that Bint Yamama's dam, "Yamameh" would be the same mare that produced the Ali Pasha Sherif stallion Mesaoud, imported by the Blunts. Mesaoud is a Saqlawi Jidran in strain. Recent MtDNA studies comparing the female lines of Mesaoud's dam line with that of Bint Yamama show they originate from the same original female. This has led to some choosing to give the strain of Saqlawi Jidran to Bint Yamama's line while others choose to honor the traditional Egyptian records.

Since strains are a cultural phenomenon and not a scientific one, they could be subject to evolution over time and circumstances. We already know that some substrains have evolved into others. Regardless of how one wishes to interpret strain designations today, there are 17 named female roots to the dam lines of straight Egyptian Arabians today. From the year of birth of the first to the last, spans three-quarters of a century. With 17 different dam lines it is important to recognize all of them as key to the future of the straight Egyptian horse and therefore each deserves preservation. They are as follows [not listed by any sort of ranking]:

KUHAYLAN	1. Rodania [Blunt] 2. Bint Yamama* (traditional) [Khedive Abbas Hilmi] 3. El Kahila [Inshass] 4. El Samraa [Inshass] 5. Nafaa [Inshass] 6. Futna [Tahawi]
DAHMAN	7. El Dahma [Ali Pasha Sherif] 8. Bint El Bahreyn [Khedive Abbas]
HADBAN	9. Venus [Khedive Abbas Hilimi]
SAKLAWI	10. Ghazieh [Abbas Pasha I] 11. Roga El Beda [Ali Pasha Sherif] 12. Hind [Inshass] 13. Mabrouka [Inshass] 14. Bint Barakat [Tahawi]
ABAYYAN	15. El Obeya Om Jurays [Inshass] 16. Karima [Inshass]
SHUWEYMAN	17. Folla [Tahawi]

Summary of Dam Lines:

This section will briefly describe each of the dam line roots and then it will be followed by a general chart of the progression of these 17 dam lines in straight Egyptian breeding.

Rodania: Born in 1869, Rodania was bred by Ibn Rodan of the Ruala Bedouin tribe and therefore a Kuhaylan Ajuz Ibn Rodan by strain. She was purchased from the Gomussa tribe by Wilfrid and Lady Anne Blunt and taken to their Crabbet stud in England where she founded a dynasty. She is perhaps one mare that appears in Arabian pedigrees world wide today more than any other. How Rodania managed to establish a large family in Egypt came much later when in 1920 two fillies, Bint Rissala and Bint Riyala were sold by Crabbet back to Egypt and these two have established a lasting family to this day.

Bint Yamama: Her exact date of birth is not known but she was bred by Khedive Abbas Pasha Hilmi II. She later came under the ownership of Prince Mohammed Ali where she established a much celebrated female line. A number of her descendants were exported to the U.S. and became famous there, and some also went to Europe and South Africa. Surprisingly in Egypt the line eventually became rare. In the Egyptian records she is recorded as a Kuhaylan Jellabi, however, as mentioned before, Lady Anne Blunt's diaries and recent DNA study has suggested that her dam is related to the same Saqlawi Jidran female line of Abbas Pasha's Ghazieh. Regardless of which line of decent one chooses to follow, Bint Yamama is the root female of a highly admired Egyptian family today.

El Kahila: Born in 1921, El Kahila was the first mare to establish the foundation of the Royal Inshass Stud of King Fouad in Egypt. She was a gift from King Ibn Saud and her strain is identified as Kuhaylan Krush. This has been a line of some handsome and admired stallions such as Sabeel, *Ibn Safinaz, *Ibn Alaa El Din and Anas. It is also the dam line of the splendid E.A.O. mare Safinaz, an equal in type to the famed Moniet El Nefous, yet as a female line it has become quite rare in Egypt and to some extent depends on lovely mares of this line exported to other countries.

El Samraa: Born in 1924, El Samraa was another important foundation mare for the Royal Inshass Stud. She was obtained from Sheikh Omar Abd El Hafiz. Her exact strain has been uncertain since her descendants were first listed in the Saklawi section of the E.A.O. stud book and later listed in the Kuhaylan section, which most now follow. Without question her most famous male descendant is the great sire Sameh whose daughters are cornerstone to many international champions as well as producing a few key sires.

Nafaa: Born 1941, Nafaa was a gift from King Aziz Ibn Saud to King Farouk. Her sire is Obayan El Safi and dam is a Kuhaylah of Saud. Nafaa produced 5 foals at Inshass but the only straight Egyptian progenitor of this family became the imported mare *Serenity Bint Nadia (Sameh x Nadia) who has established a relatively rare but admired family internationally.

Futna: Born 1943, Futna was bred by Abdul Hamid El Tahawi of the Tahawi Bedouin, sired by Ibn Barakat and out of a Kuheilal Halawiyah. This rare substrain was preserved in Egyptian breeding when Ahmed Hamza acquired Futna for his Hamdan stud. Though rare, this line continues today in Egypt as well as through two Futna great granddaughters imported to the U.S.

El Dahma: Born c. 1880 in the stud of Ali Pasha Sherif, El Dahma is the third oldest female line in straight Egyptian breeding. El Dahma is of the Dahman Shahwan strain and is represented through two main branches: from her daughters Obeya [granddam of Sabah and El Yatima] and Nadra El Khebira [granddam of Farida]. Though current data has not been compiled for comparative purposes, some feel that El Dahma's line is still the largest or most populated root female line in straight Egyptian breeding, and certainly among the most famous.

Bint El Bahreyn: Born 1898, Bint El Bahreyn was one of two mares given to Egypt's Khedive Abbas Hilmi II by the ruler of Bahrain. Later when the Khedive was winding down his involvement with Arabians, Lady Anne Blunt acquired Bint El Bahreyn after which it became a prominent Dahman Shahwan family in Egyptian bloodlines. Though this is not as large a female line as that of El Dahma, extensive use of stallions of this line has made Bint El Bahreyn a famous ancestress many times over internationally.

Venus: Born c. 1890 and imported to Egypt for Khedive Abbas Hilmi II, Venus is the sole root of a very celebrated Hadban Enzahi family. Because it is valued for both its stallions and its mares, the Hadban Enzahi strain permeates extensively bloodlines of today's straight Egyptians and the line from Venus is a very large and prized family.

Ghazieh: Born c. 1850, Ghazieh was believed to be obtained from Ibn Sudan, originator of the Saqlawi Jidran of Ibn Sudan strain. She was taken to the stud of Abbas Pasha I prior to 1855. Ghazieh is the oldest dam line in straight Egyptian breeding. She is represented in female line from 3 granddaughters of the Ali Pasha Sherif mare *Ghazala. These are Zareefa/Zarifa, a line at Inshass, Bint Radia, a family at the R.A.S., and Serra, dam of Mr. Babson's import *Bint Serra. As mentioned before, DNA has supported Lady Anne Blunt's notes that Bint Yamama also traces to Ghazieh.

Roga El Beda: Born c. 1882, Roga El Beda was bred by Ali Pasha Sherif. Her strain is Saqlawi Jidran. Information in the Raswan Index seemed to link Roga's line to Ghazieh, however Lady Anne Blunt's writing and later DNA research confirms that Roga El Beda is not the same line as Ghazieh and this distinction has been noted for decades now. This dam line is very large and contemporary to the El Dahma line in celebrity, most famous for the daughters of the immortal Moniet El Nefous, but also has branches from Inshass via Ragaa and in the U.S. via the Egyptian import *Saema.

Hind: [Not to be confused with the dam of Yosreia] Born in 1942, Hind was gifted to the Royal Inshass Stud of King Farouk by King Aziz Ibn Saud in 1945. Her sire is Obeyan El Safi who also sired Nafaa on the previous page. Her dam is a Saklawieh. The female line from Hind is smaller but has found celebrity in the show ring via descendants of her granddaughters, Bint Hanaa and Anzar both sired by El Sareei. Bint Hanaa came to the U.S. while Anzar spent most of her life in Egypt producing for Al Badeia Stud then later coming to the U.S. as an aged mare.

Mabrouka: [Not to be confused with the dam of Morafic] Born in 1930 Mabrouka was gifted to the Royal Inshass Stud of King Farouk by King Aziz Ibn Saud in 1945. Like Hind above, Mabrouka is of the Saklawi strain. Having five producing granddaughters has allowed her family to be larger than Hind but both are still only of moderate size though well regarded. Stallions from Mabrouka's line have served on several continents as well.

Bint Barakat: Born 1941, Bint Barakat was bred by Abdul Hamid El Tahawi of the Tahawi Bedouin. Her sire is Ibn Barakat and her dam is Bint Saklawiyah Jidraniyah. She is Saklawi Jidran by strain. While the better part of her family is found in Egypt, two mares of this line came to the U.S., *Fayza (x Marshall II) and *Noor (x Mourad) and have established the female line in North America.

El Obeya Om Jurays: Though her date of birth is not recorded, one source indicates that El Obeya Om Jurays was a gift from King Aziz Ibn Saud to King Fouad for Inshass while the Inshass Herdbook indicates that her 1925 daughter El Shahbaa (x El Hamdani El Nasiri) came to Inshass from El Hag Mohamed Ibrahim. The strain of this line is Abayyan Om Jurays and from El Shahbaa descends a now famous family on the international scene.

Karima: The date of birth of Karima is not recorded. Her sire is recorded as Dahman and her dam is recorded as Obeya. Her daughter Bint Karima, born 1935 was obtained by the Royal Inshass Stud from the Kafr Ibrash Farm in Cairo. Bint Karima's sire Rasheed was already owned by Inshass in 1933, which implies a relationship between these two stud farms, and all of Rasheed's other foals are out of Inshass mares. Some have speculated that "Obeya" is to be taken as Abayyan so some sources attribute the Abayyan strain to Karima's line. Regardless, Bint Karima is the progenitor of Karima's line in Egyptian breeding.

Folla: Born 1942, Folla was bred by Abdul Hamid El Tahawi of the Tahawi Bedouin. Her sire is Ibn Barakat and her dam is a Shuweymah Sabbah of the Tahawi tribe. She is Shuweymah Sabbah by strain, a very old and respected strain and Folla is unique in that she is the only dam line source of this strain in straight Egyptian breeding. Folla is the third Tahawi foundation mare of the Hamdan stud and is renowned for both stallions and mares. Though somewhat rare, this line is found in Europe, North America, South America, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the Arabian Gulf, and in Egypt.

Existing Egyptian Female Lines And Their Branches:

Indentations in this chart represent succeeding generations of females. Mares who are only represented by stallions do not appear on this chart. This chart does not imply that there are not more than what appear here but these include those who represent the preponderance of their line. There are younger mares with daughters and granddaughters, etc. of those shown here, so this is not the final word on dam lines. Some dam lines have been extended a bit further owing to the scarcity of daughters representing them or, in some cases to show additional branches. Most imports to North America have established dam lines after importation which are not necessarily extended here. The asterisk symbol (*) denotes imported to North America.
